Khrushchev Torpedoes Geneva Conference And Yet Dares To Rescue "Spirit Of Geneva"

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

THE ATTEMPT to apply artificial respiration to the dying spirit of Geneva seems to offer little promise of benefit for the West.

The foreign ministers of the Big Four powers have been fretting over some sort of formulas for a final statement to punctuate their Geneva meeting which has brought nothing but deadlock. The dispatches said the ministers wanted the statement to have a hopeful sound.

But the fact remains that having reached hopeless deadlock on the two basic issues confronting them—German reunification and European security—the foreign ministers have nothing to be hopeful about. In the light of that deadlock, talk about the prospects for disarmament are carried on in a vacuum.

More To Gain

The Western world would have more to gain, it would seem, from a statement of failure and the detailed reasons for that failure. To sound a hopeful note at this particular juncture is to run the risk of playing directly into the hands of the Soviet propagandists. So long as the spirit of Geneva lives—and it must be recognized that essentially the Russians invented that ghost—the Moscow peace offensive can continue to gnaw away at Western unity without budging an inch from any important position.

The foreign ministers professed to find areas of agreement on the idea that atomic warfare and wars of aggression should be outlawed, that there should be reduction and control of atomic weapons. The Soviet Union claims credit for originating these ideas.

The Soviet Union is entitled also, however, to full and public credit for throwing up the obstacles in the way of realizing these aims.

There can be little achieved toward disarmament without international confidence, and Secretary Dulles himself pointed out indignantly that the Soviet stand in Geneva left little room for confidence.

If war is to be declared abhorrent, the definition should be ex-

Lions Club Here To Finance Firemen's Training Tower

Training Structure Planned

THANKS to the Lions Club of the Stroudsburg, Monroe County firemen may have a drill tower in the near future.

According to Nelson Lightner, president of Monroe County Firemen's Association, the club has agreed to pay for materials to build such a training structure. Estimated cost will be about $630, Lightner said.

The Lions club offer was announced at Thursday night's meeting of the association in Mount Pocono. It was accepted "with gratitude" by county firemen, Lightner said.

Training Plans

Such a "drill" tower will serve as a training ground for firefighting methods. It is to be used by all companies in the area.

Construction — with firemen themselves doing the work — will probably begin just as soon as a site is picked. One company has already offered to donate a site, the president said. This offer came from East Stroudsburg Acme Hose Co., which owns land along Day St.

The "tower" will actually be a "makeshift" building, constructed to resemble a house or multi-story apartment building. Usual method of construction, Lightner said, is to erect four utility-type poles in the ground; then build the false-front of a house on these.

Using this as their course, firemen can practice scaling the heights with ladders, use of ropes for rescue purposes and placement of nets for rescues.

Also to be included on the site would be a place to ignite "pit fires" and other types of blaze to give firemen practice in fighting specific fires. The site will be insured and county fire companies will work out details of the tower grounds to include necessary training spots.

Committee Named

To study these needs, Lightner said, a nine-man committee has been appointed. This represents a cross-section of all companies. Clarence Strunk, East Stroudsburg, is chairman of the committee.

Lightner said the height of the "tower" structure will be about 45 feet. He emphasized that the association has not yet decided on a site for it.

The Lions club offer was presented to firemen by James Somers, a member of the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg club. Somers also expressed the gratitude of Stroudsburg borough officials to fire companies from all over the area for their assistance during the flood emergency.

Similar expressions of gratitude were brought to the association member companies by Strunk on behalf of the East Stroudsburg borough officials.

The next meeting of the association will be held on the third Thursday in January at Barrett.

Local Teen-Agers Sent To Institution

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Indefinite sentences have been imposed here upon two Monroe County teenagers who went on a 24-hour hold-up spree in New York State last September.

County Judge Daniel J. O'Mara ordered Denman A. Transue, 19, of East Stroudsburg, and a 17-year-old Tannersville youth to be committed to the State Reception Center at Elmira to be assigned to a correctional institution for an indefinite time.

First Degree Larceny

Both youths pleaded guilty Oct. 6 to attempted first degree robbery and attempted first degree grand larceny, involving a futile attempt to rob Richard J. Giehl, 26, Rochester.

The pair pleaded innocent to robbing Keith Ashby, 18, Rochester. Police claimed they forced Ashby into their car at gunpoint and took his wallet containing a dollar. Both were later returned to him by the suspects.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Vincent L. Tofany told the court that both youths also put another intended victim out of their car when they found his wallet empty, and gave up another holdup attempt because the intended victim was too drunk to get into their car. The pair also is accused of holdups in Lowville and Watertown, N. Y.

Car Spotted

Patrolman William C. Mahoney arrested the youths Sept. 12 when he spotted their car while on his way home from work.

Two 15-year-old girls, with whom the youths were said to be traveling, were picked up in a Brighton motel shortly afterwards and turned over to the Children's Shelter.

Public Library Observing National Book Week Program

MONROE COUNTY PUBLIC LIBRARY is observing "National Book Week" beginning today.

A special display of new books in the "junior department" has been set up, according to Mrs. Arthur Ifft, children's librarian.

Since the opening of the new library at 913 Main St. on Dec. 15, 1954, a total of 270 new borrowers have been registered in the juvenile section. Mrs. Elizabeth Kane, chief librarian, said last night.

During 1955, so far, 628 new books have been added to the juvenile shelves and a total of 24,261 books have been loaned to county children using the library, Mrs. Ifft said.

One service offered to Monroe County schools is the "Bookmobile." During the 1954-55 school year a total of 64,356 books were loaned through this distribution source, Mrs. Kane said.

Serves Schools

The library serves a total of 19 schools; visits and serves 104 school rooms in the county.

This service suffered a serious setback during the August 18 flood with the loss of the "Bookmobile" unit. It had been housed in a garage to the rear of the new library building.

Since the beginning of the current school year, however, the library has already placed 3,961 books in schools throughout the county. Staff members were able to do this through the cooperation of the local Red Cross chapter which loaned the use of the station wagon, Mrs. Kane said.

A number of schools have been served through efforts of PTA members, teachers, supervising principals and other persons who came to the main library to pick up books and take them to schools.

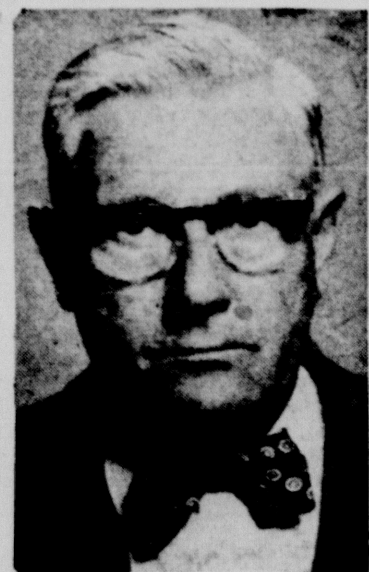

During this week the main library and the junior section will be open from noon until 8 p.m. each day, Monday through Friday and on Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon. All parents, teachers, students, and residents are urged and invited to visit the library during this week, Mrs. Kane said.

It is held annually in November. Clement Wiedmeyer's band provided music for the affair. Prizes were awarded during the entertainment.

Serving on the committee for arrangements were Robert Shaw, Harold Carlton and James Shaffer. The dance began at 9 p.m.; ended at midnight.

Chest Report Today To Be Trend Test

AT NOON today Community Chest leaders will hold a meeting which officials hope may point the way toward final success in the present campaign.

On Nov. 4 reports from division leaders showed the Chest had reached the 58 per cent mark in its drive for $88,579.

Those reports, division leaders emphasized, were "incomplete" and represented only a partial summary of returns in their areas. Today's totals will be more nearly complete.

This is especially true in the county-wide door-to-door phase of the drive. Workers in these areas have made only preliminary reports up to this time, because their division was the last to start its activity.

Other Reports

Other divisions reporting today will include Industrial-Labor with Emerson Stanton and Walter Peeney co-chairmen; Early Birds with Chester S. Miller, chairman and Special Gifts of which William Nixon is chairman.

The last-named division has nearly completed its solicitations and a close-to-final report will be heard from its workers.

Clifford Gilliam, campaign co-ordinator, will be in charge of today's meeting. It will be held in the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Chemical Company's Flood Party

CHEMICAL Co., No. 1, Stroudsburg Fire Department, sponsored a dinner dance at the Towns Room of Town Tavern Saturday night with 70 members, their wives and lady friends in attendance.

It was a purely social affair planned to take the place of the annual, clam bake in late August which was cancelled by the floods which caused such great casualties and property damage in the community.

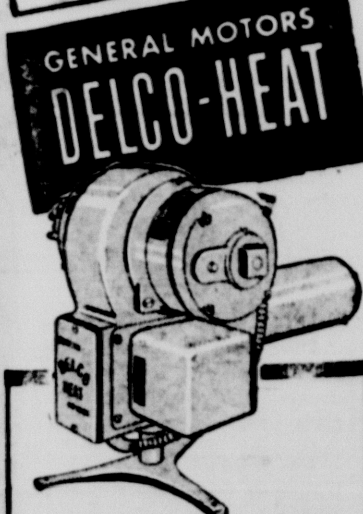

The night's program opened with a turkey-steak dinner presided over by E. J. Walton, company president. Table floral decorations were very attractive. There were no speeches.

Dancing followed the dinner, the music being furnished by the Playboys' orchestra. Donald Raish was the caller. The dance continued to the closing hour.

The committee in charge, Archie S. Rundle, chairman; Chester Gross and Harvey Hay Jr., were commended for the success of the affair.

Conclusions Of Professionals On Last Week's Election Don't Control Voting

If you listen to the professional politicians, you can get exactly opposite interpretations of this week's local elections across the country.

If you listen to Democratic National Chairman Butler, the vote returns—which certainly did favor the Democrats—are evidence of a groundswell which will elect a Democratic President a year from now.

If you listen to Republican National Chairman Hall, there is no such thing—the results have no national significance.

Both may be partly right. And it could be added that the 1956 election is a long way from being in anybody's bag. Along this line, there are two things which stick out in the returns.

In Ohio, the voters turned down, by a smashing majority, a labor-union proposal to increase state unemployment compensation and to legalize state payments to idle workers also getting layoff pay from employers. This was a jolt to Walter Reuther's "guaranteed wage" plan which he negotiated this year with the big auto companies.

The Ohio result is significant, since the state is a leading industrial area, with more than a million union members. The proposal was energetically promoted by all unions and opposed, head-on, by organized employer groups. It was defeated even in the biggest industrial areas—Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Toledo, Akron, Dayton.

Elsewhere in the country, the voters turned down more public bond issues, dollar-wise, than they approved. This can be taken as evidence (in part, at least) of public weariness with government spending.

All in all, it looks like the voters are voting as they individually please, not in blocs. The Ohio example is almost pat evidence. They may hear their leaders, but they vote as they see fit.

Which gets us back to the original proposition—No election is in the bag until the votes are counted.

Moss Committee Can Help Wipe Out Attitude Against Releasing News

Now under investigation by a committee of Congress is one of the most persistent problems of government—the reluctance of public officials to let out the facts of what they are doing.

The committee already has been given testimony which alleges "secrecy" in the Federal Government is on the increase, that too much slanted information is put out by Government agencies, that there is a growing aversion for press conferences among high officials.

U.S. Rep. John E. Moss, the Sacramento, Calif., Democrat who heads the committee, can make this investigation especially useful if he will steer it clear of partisan ruts, if he will try to get at the root of the problem, and not simply wind up with a report saying the public is entitled to information it isn't getting.

The answer to the question of whether there is a "paper curtain" is yes, of course. But it is not all black or white.

It is a matter of attitude. And the attitude that any information at all about the public business—save only security data—should be withheld is one no honest public official ever should tolerate.

If the Moss Committee can scuttle that attitude, it can be proud of itself, and everybody else will be proud of it.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Role Of Red Spies Burgess, Maclean Must Be Brought Into Open By British Or U. S.

It is starting, at this date, to read that President Roosevelt and Secretary of War Stimson actually believed that their Manhattan Project and the atomic bomb were so secret that they would not tell Vice President Harry Truman about it.

After Truman held his first Cabinet meeting as President, Stimson stayed behind to tell him what was going on. Truman says in his memoirs: "Stimson told me that he wanted me to know about an immense project that was under way—a project looking to the development of a new explosive of almost unbelievable destructive power. That was all he felt free to say at the time, and his statement left me puzzled. It was the first bit of information that had come to me about the atomic bomb, but he gave me no details."

If this business was really so secret, why did not the Pentagon set up an adequate security system? The FBI was kept out of it, but not Dr. Klaus Fuchs who, although a known Communist, was permitted to enter this country and to work at the Manhattan Project. We now know that Fuchs stole the bomb with the assistance of the Rosenberg spy ring. What else was stolen there we do not know.

But not only was the Vice President kept in ignorance but the Congress. Harry Truman recounts that when he was chairman of a Senate Committee investigating the National Defense, Stimson came to him. This is the way Truman recounts it: "Senator," the Secretary (Stimson) told me as he sat beside my desk, "I can't tell you what it is, but it is the greatest project in the history of the world. It is most top secret. Many of the people who are actually engaged in the work have no idea what it is, and we who do would appreciate your not going into those plants."

Perhaps had Harry Truman made his investigation, he would have learned that the secret was already out, that the Russians had already stolen it, that the United States was living in a fool's paradise.

The day may come when the British government will pluck up the courage to tell Parliament what they know about the crimes of Burgess and Maclean. When they were in this country as British officials, they were Russian agents. Whatever passed between the American and British governments they had.

General Douglas MacArthur has testified that his battle orders were passed on to the enemy in the Korean War. He investigated thoroughly and there is no doubt in his mind that there was no leak in Korea and no leak in Tokyo. The leak must have been in Washington. The Chinese Communists, for instance, knew, and it has been established by captured documents, that he was forbidden to pursue the enemy into the Manchurian sanctuary. In fact, there is belief that the Chinese Communists knew that MacArthur would receive such an order before MacArthur did.

There has been some speculation that the leak was in the State Department. Suppose the American government engaged upon discussions with the British government concerning this decision and the documents, back and forth, passed over the desks of Burgess and Maclean. And suppose they made copies and passed them on to their Russian masters. Knowledge of the truth, if it did nothing else, would clear the reputations of suspected Americans.

Herbert Morrison in the British Parliament has been pressing Sir Anthony Eden to tell the whole truth about these scoundrels. We do not know how much Eden knows, but the explanations given thus far are not plausible and are apparently not being accepted in Great Britain.

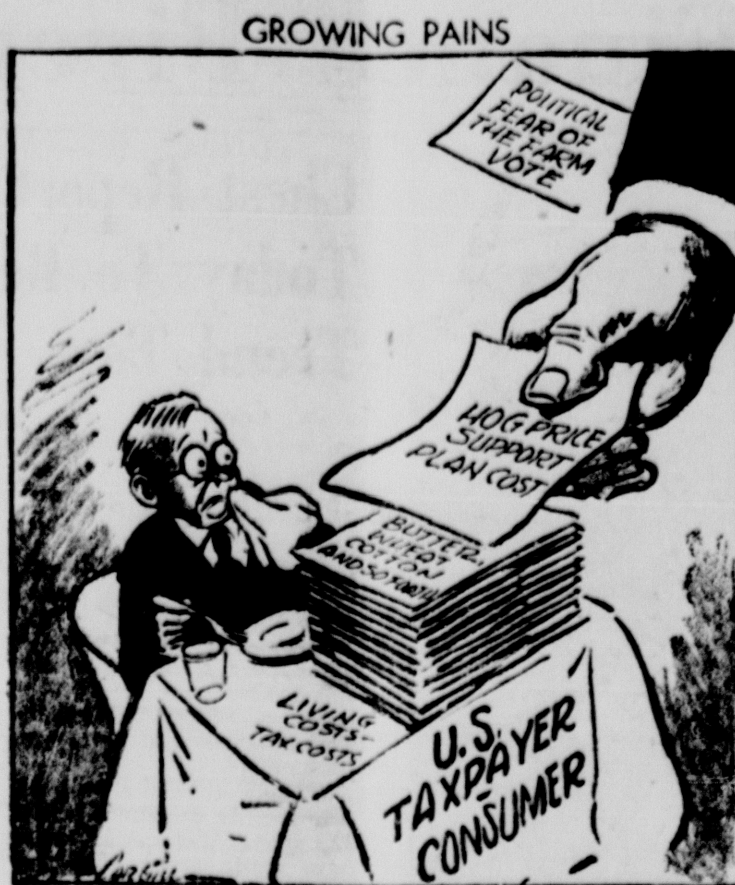

From the American standpoint, it would be sufficient if we were told that the discussion about the Manchurian sanctuary did pass over the desks of Burgess and Maclean because it would explain the difficulties which General MacArthur faced; it would explain the death of General Walton H. Walker; it would force Dean Acheson's critics to revise their judgment of him.

Our own State Department must know more about this situation than has been made public. Perhaps the cover-up is a matter of habit. It is even possible that it is this habit which has produced so much rancor against Congressional investigations. But the truth must be revealed in Washington or in London because men's historic reputations are at stake, and just as Harry Truman wrote his memoirs, so will these other men.

how to get a performer combining the talents of Humphrey Bogart, Rocky Marciano, Gene Autry, Jeff Chandler and Victor Borge to play the leading role. For Harry rides herd on many and bumps off scores, leaving more Republicans biting the dust than Griffith left Indians in "Birth of a Nation." Made into a movie, this one can merge the thrills of "To Hell and Back," "Blackboard Jungle," "High Noon," "The Caine Mutiny" and "The Phenix City Story." His fights with "Carolina Jim" Byrnes at the three X Ranch and with "Faded Away" MacArthur atop the runaway stagecoach are blood tingling. These scenes are topped only by the one in which reversing what was thought to be a revival of "Custer's Last Fight," done from a train platform he shoots it out with the Indian chief of the Albany tribe, Mighty-Buster-of-Many - Crime - Waves and triumphs. In a later scene in which Our Hero tries to shoot the "I Like Ike" buttons off a stampeding electorate the author is not quite so successful. Altogether a book of the "months," but not for November.

Purpose Of Election To Make People Think, Not Just Vote

Only 318 days left to shop around for the next President of the United States—and it is none too soon to admonish procrastinators not to put it off until election day.

The shopping is far more important than the final transactions in the voting booths.

I have sounded off on this subject before but there's no law against repetition.

This country has a lot of high-minded, well-meaning citizens who would dearly love to see our system of representative democracy work in practice as it theoretically should—each decision at the polls reflecting a clear-cut expression by all the qualified voters on every question at issue.

It's a praiseworthy attitude—one to be encouraged by all available means. I'm for it and want to help in every way I can.

But I can't steam up any enthusiasm for helping in the way many of those people seem to consider the best method of realizing their hopes—by repeatedly knocking themselves out in impassioned efforts to "Get Out the Vote."

Undoubtedly with a strong sense of civic righteousness they organize themselves into posers and, in the week or so preceding every election, beat the bushes to flush apathetic voters and herd them to the polling places to exercise their ignorance.

This is a stupid thing to do and I am against it. I am heartened by a current article in one of the "thoughtful" national magazines supporting my contention that intelligent people shouldn't waste so much time and energy coaxing reluctant voters merely to turn out and vote.

"The notion that 'getting out the vote' makes for better election results," it says, "is neither non-partisan, patriotic nor logical. It . . . makes elections more expensive to conduct, greatly slows the tallying, and—worst of all—places the emphasis on the ritual of voting rather than on the thought behind the vote."

"Instead of urging people to vote, we ought to be urging them to study and form opinions. If thought and inspection of the candidates do not create a real desire to vote, then the citizen should be encouraged to stay at home on election day."

Amen! There is no point in cluttering up the polling places with a lot of bewildered people who are not prepared to do what needs to be done there. The purpose of an election is to find out what the people think. Those who think it's important for them to cast their votes for one candidate or another are pretty apt to do so without anybody's having to twist their arms.

Those who think it isn't important should be permitted to express that opinion by staying home. After all, that certain people do think that way is one of the political facts of life which sound government must take into account. Don't fuss it up.

Try and Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

Demonstrating a new oil pipe at key meetings in the South is Keen Johnson, former governor of Kentucky.

At one gathering, Johnson recalled to Jim Clark a day when he was still governor. A mountaineer had been convicted of a fued killing—on circumstantial evidence—and sentenced to die. Petitions and pleas from interested parties failed to impress the authorities, but a note, scrawled in pencil on a piece of old scratch paper, from the prisoner himself won him a commutation to life imprisonment.

"Dear Governor," it read, "I is skekuled to be executed on Friday and hear it is wensday. Yores trooly, Joe D."

Mrs. Eleanor Ehart, of Miami, submits this bit of poetic advertising propaganda:

"The constant drop of water wears away the hardest stone; The constant gnaw of Towser masticates the toughest bone; The constant wooing lover carries off the blushing maid; But the CONSTANT ADVERTISER is the one who gets the trade!"

Robert S. Allen Reports

Trade, Travel Relaxation To Benefit Red Satellites

Washington, Nov. 14 — A big string is attached to those announcements by the State and Commerce Departments that restrictions are being relaxed on trade and travel relations with the Iron Curtain empire.

This easing of curbs is not to be general. Real "target" of this new policy is the satellite countries and not Russia. The satellites are to get first consideration and most of the benefits. The Soviet will come last and receive the least.

Secretary of State Dulles himself disclosed this backstage strategy.

He revealed it in a special report on the Geneva conference that has been sent to American ambassadors in key capitals. A portion of this State Department memorandum was personally written by Dulles.

Its purpose is to provide U. S. diplomats with official "briefing" and "interpretative" material. Following are highlights of Dulles' significant views on this subject:

"It is the position of the U. S. that increased contact between East-West must be based on Soviet willingness to agree to increased contact between the countries of the West and the satellite countries. Foreign Minister Molotov has persistently shied away from linking the satellites to the discussion of increasing contacts between the West and the East.

"It is the firm view of the U. S. that contacts must be increased with the satellites so that these countries and their people can renew their traditional ties with the West, and to understand that the West has not forgotten them nor is resigned to their permanent subjugation."

"On East-West exchanges we must not permit the Soviets to take the play with sweeping pronouncements or proposals designed to make them appear the champion of lifting the curtain. Our proposals are sufficiently far-reaching and practical to convince the world that we sincerely believe that greater exchanges of ideas, information, persons and goods are desirable."

"The U. S. means what it says. But it is well to point out that while such exchanges are conducive to an atmosphere in which the settlement of more basic issues can be facilitated, they are not in themselves the be-all and end-all of genuinely peaceful relations."

Note: President Eisenhower had had several trans-Atlantic phone talks with Secretary Dulles on both the Big Four conference and the extremely critical situation in the inflamed Middle East. These personal discussions were in addition to daily cabled reports from Dulles.

In The Wings: Robert C. Benchley had difficulty with deadlines. It is common knowledge that his mag editors told him the deadline was a day sooner than it was. "Why, it takes me that long just to mislay my notes!"

There's usually a catch in it somewhere, and a note from Brownie Troop 22 reports "In all fairness we think we ought to tell you that the Brownies who licked the pudding pan also had to wash the dishes."

It might be a little difficult to find the catch in the past week-end when we got an unexpected reprieve from winter weather, but I suppose we could figure that it's going to be that much harder to get used to cold weather when it returns.

Of course, you can reverse uncomfortable situations, too. Even insomnia can pay off when you are able to watch such a film as "The Little Fugitive" on the late show on television, or catch up on the reading you never had time for before.

And speaking of television, that looks like an interesting program the Clearview PTA has on for tonight, and should generate some heat, if not light on the subject of children and TV—particularly if the children have a part in the program.

Well, there are a lot of good programs coming up this week. In the clubs, so maybe we'd better get busy so we'll be prepared to listen—and report.

Mrs. Paul Moser

Leading Churchwoman To Be Speaker Here on Tuesday

All of the women of Lehigh Presbyterian have been invited to join the Woman's Auxiliary of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church at their thank offering service on Tuesday night at 8 when the speaker will be Mrs. Paul Moser, prominent Presbyterian Church leader.

Mrs. Moser is a member of the Board of Foreign Missions and chairman of its Foreign Committee. She has traveled widely in the interest of a developing world church, particularly as related to the work of women's organization.

In 1946 Mrs. Moser circled the globe as a member of the Deputation sent by the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions to study post-war conditions in the Philippines and Thailand.

In 1950 she attended the meeting of the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam and also visited churches in Hungary and Czechoslovakia observing the work done through the Restoration Fund of the Presbyterian Church. In 1952 she accompanied Miss Frances Gray, the boards executive secretary for Africa and the Near East on an administrative survey of Presbyterian work in the French Cameroun, West Africa.

Because of her first-hand knowledge of conditions around the world and her success in making that knowledge come alive.

Any of your small fry need building up? Then serve the youngster an orange eggnog for a mid-morning or mid-afternoon snack. To make it, beat together an egg, a cup each of orange juice and milk, a tablespoon or two of honey and a dash of salt. This makes enough for Mother to have a taste, too.

Scornfully he draws himself up an inch or so and demands in turn, "Mother — don't you even know a Davy Crockett hat when you see one?" Apparently not. Wonder if a raccoon might?

A communication from ever-helpful Reddy Kilowatt advises me, and thousands of other customers of the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company, that tomorrow and thereafter electric bills may be paid in the Appliance Department of A. B. Wyckoff.

This has, of course, been in the offering for some time and just the other day I returned from the radio broadcast to find officials of PP and L meeting in my office with our Appliance and auditing personnel as the new system was explained.

Undoubtedly many of our customers will find it most convenient to pay their bills at Wyckoff's, while doing their shopping. After all, our store is in the very center of town and now, more than ever, a "one stop center" for all who come into Stroudsburg on business. It sometimes seems to me that there's just no end to all the services Wyckoff's offers—which accounts, no doubt, for its increasing popularity through the years.

Where to park when the Wyckoff parking lot is filled . . . that has been the $64 question for ever so long. But it needn't be really . . . for right back of Main street, on Sarah, between Fifth and Seventh streets, are 75 meters that permit four hour parking. That's a total of 300 hours of parking time, within easy walking distance of the town's shopping center. Don't know why so few people seem to know about it . . . but those meters are very often unused. Why not see for yourself what a convenience they are?

In answer to all the queries about Christmas work, we are happy to say that at the moment our staff seems complete. However, the schedules are not, and so, at the last minute there may be any number of weak points where we'll need additional personnel. If you have filed an application for work and have not as yet been hired, why not check back in another two weeks if still interested? By that time we may be shrieking "Help, Help!" and you may be the very one to rush to the rescue. In any event, thanks for being interested — too bad there isn't an opening for everyone.

A gift to be treasured more than years can measure — your portrait — most affectionate of all ways to bring your Christmas wishes to those you love.

Only one of the six seniors who played their final football game for ESSTC on Saturday was a regular. That is certainly good news for Coach Senneker and his staff as far as next season is concerned.

Brooklyn Places Two Representatives On Associated Press Major League All-Star Team

By Joe Reichler
NEW YORK, Nov. 13—Brooklyn is the only club with more than one representative on the 1955 Associated Press major league All-Star baseball team.

Nine of the 16 big league clubs are represented in the AP's 10th annual All-Star squad, selected by 99 members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. Seven National League players are honored along with three from the American.

"Duke" Snider in the outfield and Roy Campanella behind the plate are the representatives from the World Champion Dodgers. Oddly enough, the American League champion New York Yankees have only one member on the stellar team—the southpaw pitcher "Whitey" Ford.

Other clubs with single representatives are Cincinnati, Milwaukee, Philadelphia, New York and Chicago in the National League and Boston and Chicago in the American.

Only three All-Stars are holdovers from the 1954 team: They are Kuzewski, Mays and Snider. Stan Musial, whose batting average "slumped" to .319 for the second lowest mark of his brilliant career, failed to make the team for only the second time since the poll was inaugurated in 1946. He received votes for two positions, finishing second among the first basemen and sixth among the outfielders.

The power-packed squad, five sluggers with more than 40 home runs each and six with more than 100 runs batted in. Surprisingly, it doesn't list the two 1955 batting champs—Al Kaline of Detroit and Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia. Neither does it have the American League home-run king, Mickey Mantle of the Yankees, but Mays, with his 51 homers and Snider with his 136 RBIs, both major league highs are included.

The biggest vote getter was Roberts. The Phil's peerless pitcher was named on 92 ballots as the best right-handed hurler in the majors.

First base — Ted Kuzewski, Redlegs (.314).
Second base — Nelson Fox, White Sox (.311).
Third base — Eddie Mathews, Braves (.289).
Shortstop — Ernie Banks, Cubs (.295).
Left field — Ted Williams, Red Sox (.356).
Center field — Willie Mays, Giants (.319).
Right field — Snider, Dodgers (.309).
Catcher — Campanella, Dodgers (.318).
Righthanded pitcher — Robin Roberts, Phillies 23-11, (3.30 ERA).
Ford, Yankees 18-7, (.262 ERA).

Only three All-Stars are holdovers from the 1954 team: They are Kuzewski, Mays and Snider. Stan Musial, whose batting JOHNSTOWN, Nov. 13—For the third straight season Slippery Rock and Lock Haven share honors as champions of the five-team Pennsylvania State Teachers College Soccer Conference. Both teams defeated Indiana twice to garner 200 points under the Saylor system of ratings used by the conference.

Doesn't Count

Although West Chester rates 200 points, the Ram booters can not share championship honors because they did not play the required minimum of two conference games. Final standings:

Lock Haven	2	0	200
Slippery Rock	2	0	200

Navy Lands Title As Duke Bows

MINISINK HILLS — Penn upset Duke and Navy won the championship of the East Stroudsburg Mid-west Football League on Saturday. Penn scored a come-from-behind 19-15 decision over Duke in the final seconds of the battle here at Smithfield School.

Duke entered Saturday's action in first place, but wound up second with a mark of four wins and two setbacks. Navy, idle on the last day of the season, capped the bunting with four wins, one tie and a single loss.

Both teams scored touchdowns in the first period. Duke's score came first when Norman Fish went off tackle for one yard and the six points. Duke received the opening kickoff and marched right to the touchdown.

Penn fought back when Billy Schuppe picked up a fumble in the Duke backfield and scampered 27 yards for the touchdown. Both bids for the extra point met with failure.

Duke went to the head of the class by registering a safety in the second period and maintained an 8-6 edge at the halfway mark.

The visiting Duke squad recovered a Penn fumble on the latter's four-yard line, but the Quakers held and regained possession of the ball. On an attempted punt the pass from center sailed through the endzone, giving Duke an automatic safety.

Penn went into a 13-8 lead with seven points in the third period. Bob Kammer went around for four yards and the TD. Kammer added the extra point on a quarterback sneak. Penn scored on a 31-yard march after receiving the second half kickoff.

Duke made a determined bid for the circuit title in the fourth period, but the 15-13 advantage that resulted was only short lived. Mike Puzio, visiting quarterback made a brilliant 28-yard run around his own right end for the touchdown and Brian Ferris plunged off tackle for the extra point.

But, Penn came back to win in the fading seconds when Tom Peitly intercepted a Puzio pass and the Quakers drove for the deciding touchdown. The drive started on the Duke 30 and the climax was a 10-yard heave from Kammer to Ed Overfield for the score. A pass for the extra point was knocked down and the final whistle sounded a couple of seconds later.

UNESCO Held To Be One Of Best Agencies

A PANEL discussion on "The 'E' in UNESCO" was the main feature Saturday at a meeting of Phi Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma Society.

The Society is an organization for women educators. Members of the panel were Marie Brown from the Business and Professional Women's Club; Elsie Swingle, representing Delta Kappa Gamma and Mrs. Claude Leister, from the American Association of University Women.

Student Exchange

Miss Brown outlined the background of UNESCO as one of the specialized agencies of the United Nations. She then told of the foreign student exchange fund sponsored by the Pennsylvania Federation of the Business and Professional Women.

She pointed out that these foreign exchange students return to their own countries as our good will ambassadors. She praised the program as a key method for showing foreign students on first-hand ground the true ways in which Americans live and the values of our form of government.

Miss Swingle told what DKG has been doing to further the aims of UNESCO, by undertaking a drive to raise funds for fellowships for Korean students to study abroad through a "gift coupon project."

This is a plan by which organizations can help worthy institutions and groups in foreign countries by buying coupons which are then turned over to students who use them to buy articles for education.

Mrs. Leister said that "for many years" the AAUW has raised money for fellowships and grants for foreign students. She discussed UNESCO, its relationship to the Economic and Social Council of the UN and the importance of the work UNESCO has done and is doing, along with its objectives.

Attacks Criticism

She further discussed the unjustified and adverse criticism of UNESCO, due to lack of study of its aims and its achievements in helping needy countries and peoples throughout the world.

Katherine McFarland, president, was in charge of the meeting. Reports were heard from Janet Bender, recording secretary; Mrs. Grace Thompson, treasurer; Mrs. Robertina Roan, legislative committee; Mrs. Elizabeth Schaller, membership; Mrs. Lillian Wagner, program; Cora Lange, "selective recruitment"; Mrs. Martha Martin, hospitality and Miss Bender, publicity.

Eloise Bryan reported that she had been asked to serve as state representative of public relations.

Miss McFarland announced that she had served as chairman of the nominating committee for the new State officers. She also reported briefly on the State convention held in Pittsburgh in June and the regional conference at Millersville in September.

War On Insects

ROME, Nov. 13 (AP)—Afghanistan, Iran, Turkey, Syria and Iraq have asked the U. N. Food and Agricultural Organization to set up a new plant protection section for the war on insects. They have been plagued by locusts and other crop destroyers since beyond the beginning of recorded history.

Among older factory employees, one company found that 36 per cent more people qualified as above-average workers after professional eye care than before they sought such care.

Attitude Of Cities Keys Supreme Court's Ban On Recreational Segregation

By The Associated Press

THE ATTITUDE OF CITIES apparently will be the major factor in determining how the South accepts the U. S. Supreme Court order outlawing racial segregation in public recreational facilities.

The Court, which last year banned public school segregation, Monday extended its ban on racial separation to public parks and golf courses in ruling on cases from Maryland and Atlanta.

In contrast to the wave of bitter comment in the wake of the school decisions, reaction to the decree applying the same rule to public recreation areas was comparatively calm.

Out Of Business

But Georgia Gov. Marvin Griffin declared flatly that the state would "go out of the park business before allowing a breakdown in segregation in the intimacy of the playground." Although not so positive, there was some indication of similar sentiment in Virginia, Louisiana, South Carolina and Mississippi.

Oklahoma and Kentucky on the other hand expressed willingness to comply, and the attitude of the other six states was one of watchful waiting.

But from the cities which operate far more recreational areas—parks, playgrounds, swimming pools and golf courses—there was little more than guarded comment, and also an attitude of waiting.

No accurate figures were available as to just how many facilities might be affected. A Southern Regional Council study in 1952 listed only 12 park areas available to Negroes as compared to 180 for whites in nine states, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia. The list did not include North Carolina, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Alabama.

Degree Of Admission

In addition, there are hundreds of other recreational facilities operated by the various cities in the 13 traditionally segregated states—most of them exclusively for whites.

However, an Associated Press survey showed that even before the court ruling, Negroes had some degree of admission to white recreational areas in at least nine of the states.

Rev. Ramsey To Conduct Campaign Here

REV. VICTOR Ramsey, London, England, will conduct an Evangelistic campaign at the First Assembly of God Church on Stokes Ave., South Stroudsburg, from Nov. 13-27.

Mr. Ramsey, a member of the British evangelistic team of Bean, Ramsey, and West, will replace Rev. E. H. Jones, London, Ky., who is physically unable to conduct the services.

Services will be held each night at 7:45, except Mondays, and on Sundays at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The other two members of the evangelistic team, which is touring the United States with success, will join Ramsey here on Nov. 27, and stay until Dec. 3.

Smithfield Oldsters Show Way To Voters

THE OLDSTERS "showed 'em how" during the recent election in Smithfield township, a political party observer said last night.

There were two instances, according to Wayne H. Posten, a Democratic party leader.

One was 86-year-old Samuel Strunk of Minisink Hills. Strunk has for many years been a Democratic party "worker" at the polls, Posten said. He was there on election day, doing his usual job.

Second instance: H. O. Bush, just turned 80, of Franklin Hill, voted in the township again. Bush cast his first ballot there when he was 21; has been voting in Smithfield ever since. He, too, is a Democrat, according to Posten.

Democratic party officials also cited the fact that the second highest vote in the township's history was cast in the recent election. A total of 567 persons voted.

The official book week poster, will be handed out in all three school libraries this week.

Supervisor of the program for the week, and the person in charge of organization of all activities, is Janet L. Bender, school librarian.

Special Display
A special display on the theme "Our Books, Yesterday and Today," has been arranged by Miss Knepp for the exhibit case outside the library rooms. This display shows copies of a "horn book," a "battledore" and a "Pretty Little Pocket Book," all volumes used by children in the early days of America. They were printed and distributed in the 1800's and early 1900's.

An announcement of "book week" activities will be made this morning in assembly by Lois Getz, a member of the library staff. A film, titled "Help Yourself," showing the use of books and libraries, will be shown in all English classes this week.

Let's Read More
The library bulletin boards in both Morey and Ramsey schools have also been decorated to promote the book week slogan "Let's Read More."

Wagner Raps UNESCO
WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—National Commander J. Addington Wagner of the American Legion blasted UNESCO last night as "the international sanctuary of impractical one-worlders, Red-tinged radicals, and apparently deserters from the ranks of loyal Americans."

on Tuesday, Nov. 8. The record high was set in 1936—a Presidential election—when 680 persons voted in the township.
